

STREET SWEEPERS SWEAR? 'SURE,' SAYS AN INSPECTOR

Replies to Burch's Criticism and Asks if He Wants Sunday School Workers—Good as Average City Employee, He Asserts

Problem for today: Are the street cleaning inspectors more profane as a class than others in the city employ? The affirmative is supported by Commissioner Francis F. Burch. The negative is taken by the gentlemen under discussion.

When the judges were being considered yesterday in Council, Mr. Burch addressed himself to Director Caven somewhat as follows:

"I wish you would do something, Mr. Director, about the language of our street cleaning inspectors. They are the most fluent swearers I have ever heard. Their profanity is terrible. Commissioner Burch is a minister's son.

It is not recorded whether Director Caven promised to undertake to reform the inspectors, but the latter frankly admitted the impertinence of Commissioner Burch's criticism.

"What does he mean, a Sunday School?" was the bitter rejoinder of one of the officials in question. "I might tell you, the men in this department are just as good as any other department. Every man swears a little at times.

"Most of the men are here out on the streets with a brush and broom. They are profane. How are you going to reform what to use if we are to do it, and they can understand it."

"If we were to go to the city and was looking on the job, and was a lawyer, we are going to get a good deal of money in a few days. I will be glad to do it. I will be glad to do it. I will be glad to do it."

"Now, the men in this department are going on their knees and I want to tell you right here and now that the fellows in our department are as fine a bunch as there are in the Hall—anywhere. If you can't do it, you can't do it."

RAILROAD HEADS ACCUSED

Concerns in Which They Own Stock Most Prosperous, Says Expert

Washington, Nov. 20.—(By A. P.)—Frank J. Warne, economist for the four railroad brotherhoods, continuing his testimony before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce today, contended that supply companies, particularly coal and steel, in which railroad officials were interested, had been more prosperous than those with no direct affiliations.

Mr. Warne put into the committee's record the names of several hundred railroad officials, together with their stock and bond holdings in such supply houses, as disclosed by the Interstate Commerce Commission's investigation of that subject some months ago.

Where is the tire dealer headed for in 1922

ALONG about this time of the year the tire-dealer is a much called upon man. Probably a dozen different "Agencies" for a dozen different tires are hopefully spread before him.

But when he gets off by himself and starts to think he finds out that most so-called Agency Franchises are hardly more than permission to invest his money in this brand or that brand at his own risk.

Consider now—not what is said in behalf of the U. S. Tire Sales and Service Agreement—but what it does.

Consider general conditions for the past year. And note everywhere that U. S. Tire dealers have been the least affected of all.

Observe how generally the U. S. Tire dealer is respected. Not alone by the public but by his local competitors. The U. S. Tire dealer always knows where he is at. Right now—or in making his plans for 1922. He can always put his hands on the U. S. consistent merchandising policy.

Where the U. S. Sales Franchise separates from the rest and asserts its prerogatives are in these things—

- It brings to the dealer's store the greatest and most loyal tire-audience anywhere.
- It supports the dealer with the most constructive and courageous publicly expressed policies today.
- It carries the prestige of the U. S. Royal Cord Tire and the "USCO" Tread.

It is the most sought after Franchise in the whole tire trade. U. S. dealers will be the ranking tire-merchants of 1922. Not only in profits returned, but in local reputation as business citizens.
